

Product worlds

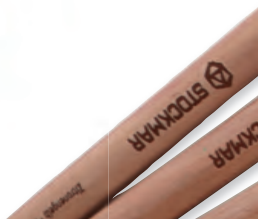

STOCKMAR products— for lots of creative fun

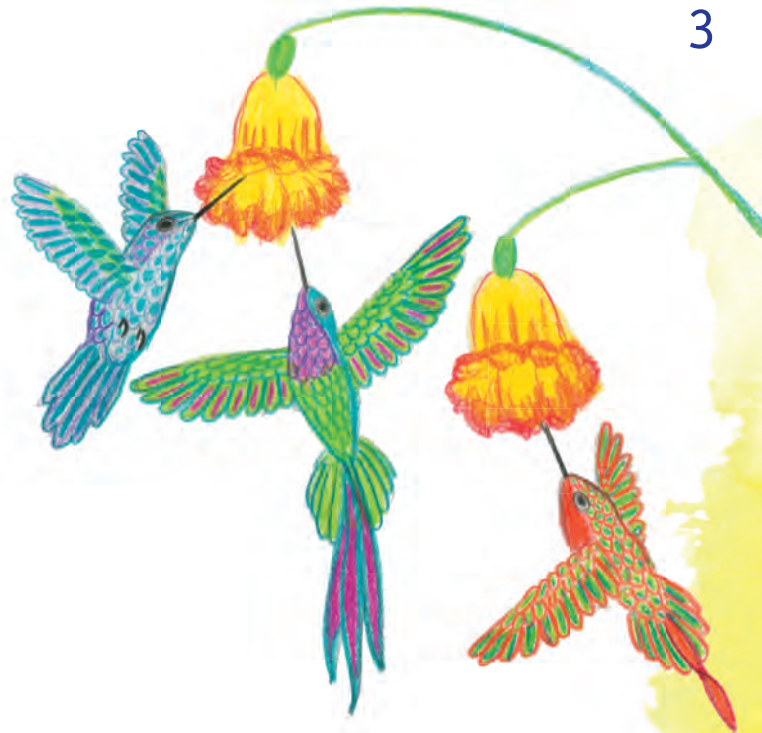

For over 100 years, the name STOCKMAR has stood for the highest caliber of art supplies. We take a comprehensive, smart approach to quality through: the careful selection of raw materials, first-class processing and our products' excellent colour, paint and modeling properties. We believe that quality fosters artistic freedom which positively impacts individual development. We create exceptional products which support a rich, artistic experience—be it at home, kindergarten, school, or in a therapeutic environment.

STOCKMAR colour harmony— because colour matters

Colour matters—Johann Wolfgang von Goethe was well aware of this and the vibrant but harmonious colour palette of all STOCKMAR products is based on his famous colour wheel. Goethe's colour wheel boasts the whole rainbow—created from the three primary colours: blue, red and yellow. The finely balanced consistency of all STOCKMAR colours has been developed out of this harmonious colour wheel and an understanding of the effects that individual colours have on people.

STOCKMAR tradition—quality responsibility and safety

We use selected raw materials, blended harmoniously and moderately, for our products' high quality formulas. The finer points in the composition are the result of decades of experience. STOCKMAR products pose no hazards to health or the environment. Due to our individual concept and our sense of responsibility for our world, we develop all products to go above and beyond legal safety requirements.

STOCKMAR wax crayons

Because drawing is fun

STOCKMAR wax crayons are the first choice for kids: the bright colours and pleasant smell of beeswax make drawing and colouring a truly rich experience of the senses and create new artistic freedom.

32 colours

- Artistic quality
- Available as single colour crayons or blocks or as a range

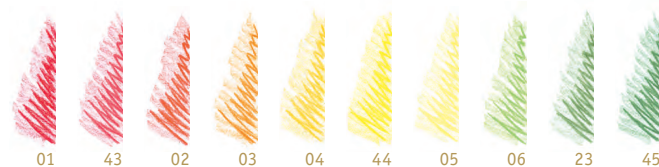

Experience colour

The special texture of STOCKMAR wax crayons creates both delicate drawings and intensely bright images. Crystalline waxes act as a carrier for transparency, giving colours structure and gloss. Natural beeswax creates pleasant, warm tones.

STOCKMAR coloured pencils

Be an artist

A special characteristic of STOCKMAR coloured pencils is their transparency and glaze. Thanks to a precisely balanced amount of high-quality micro-crystalline wax, every colour has its own unique depth and light. This effect unveils its full impact especially in glazed painting, the layering of colours on top of each other on the paper.

Soft, yet powerful

The balanced blend of moist and dry components, and a process developed specially by STOCKMAR form the basis for the leads in STOCKMAR coloured pencils. This gives them a soft but intense, quality colour which is dust-free and break-proof.

Vibrant, luminous colour worlds

With their luminosity, their translucency and unique colour harmony, STOCKMAR watercolour paints bring your art to life. They evoke a joy in painting and provide space for imaginative, artistic design. As the colours unveil their luminosity on wet paper, they create an intense experience. As different tones blend together, they develop a feeling for the secret world of colours.

Painting in transparent layers

The expressive power of translucent yet luminous STOCKMAR watercolour paints are revealed when glazed.

STOCKMAR colour wheel paints

The whole rainbow can be found in Goethe's colour wheel, created from the three primary colours: blue, red and yellow. The finely balanced consistency of all STOCKMAR colours developed out of this harmonious colour wheel and an understanding of the effect that individual colours have on people.

STOCKMAR opaque colours

Full colour

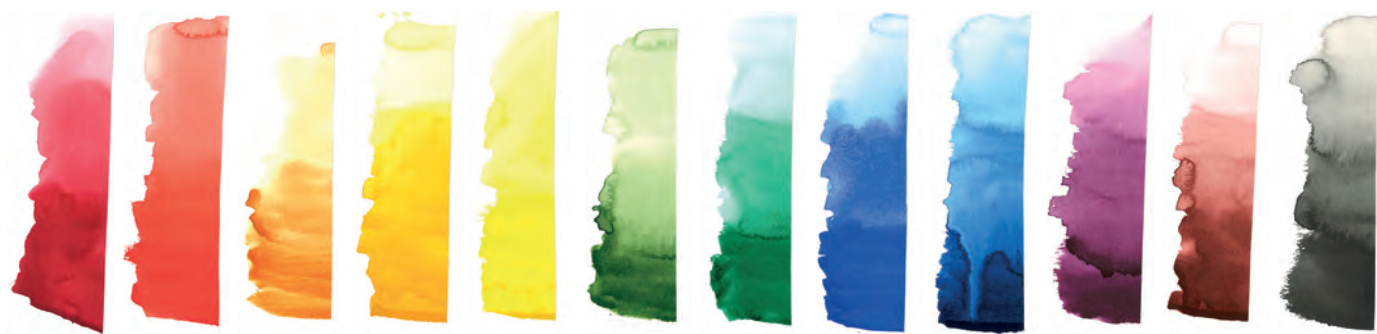

STOCKMAR opaque colours boxes offer four mixed colours per two primary colour tones (yellow, red and blue), creating unlimited individual colour blends. The high proportion of pigments creates intense colours which look bright even when dry. These luminous, artist quality colours make painting a truly rich experience of the senses. Using water and brush supports fine motor skills and opens up new realms of artistic discovery.

Be creative

Whether it's opaque painting with rich colour planes or precise work with a fine paintbrush, whether it's glazing with several layers of colour or delicate watercolour: STOCKMAR opaque colours are suitable for a wide range of painting techniques. Interesting effects emerge when you mix techniques using STOCKMAR wax crayons: applied to paper, it repels water and paint, creating impressive highlights.

Get to grips with the world

Kids love molding and kneading shapes—this kind of artistic creativity lets them make the world their own. STOCKMAR modelling beeswax is the perfect material for this. It's highly versatile and clean. Though initially hard, the wax softens in warm hands: thorough kneading makes it soft so it lends its silky consistency to all kinds of shapes.

Create with all the senses

The luminous, harmonious colours, the pleasant scent of beeswax and the act of working the wax with your hands makes creating shapes with STOCKMAR modelling beeswax a truly rich experience of the senses. Unlike soft clay which eventually turns hard and, later, brittle, modelling beeswax forms retain their shape, colour and sheen—and can easily be reshaped as desired at a later date. Detailed work reveals a special quality when held up to a light source: thanks to their translucency, the colours look especially beautiful.

Decoration and designing

At parties and other occasions, kids love using the fine decorating wax for colourful decoration and design. There are no limits to their creativity because the sheets adhere well to a wide variety of surfaces. Their best quality is most evident against a bright background: thanks to their translucency, the colours look especially beautiful.

Giving colour shape

STOCKMAR decorating wax can be cut, stamped or gently warmed by hand before being shaped. They can be used to decorate, for example, candles, shaped into small figures and used to supplement images with finer details. The sheets can always be used together with modelling beeswax to easily create vivid art works.
